MESSAGES

BaSS President
Prof. Dr. Argirios Pissiotis

*Dear distinguished members of the Balkan Stomatological Society,
Dear Colleagues in the Balkan Countries,*

It is my pleasure to invite you to attend the 23rd Congress of the Balkan Stomatological Society (BaSS) which will be organized this year by our President-Elect, Professor Dr. Norina Forna in Iasi, Romania at the Palas Congress Hall from the 10th through the 12th of May 2018.

The Balkan Stomatological Society (BaSS) following its tradition of more than twenty years in organizing, as per its constitutional obligation, another annual Congress with the purpose of bringing together dentists from all the Balkan countries to exchange scientific knowledge and share clinical experiences for the benefit of the oral health care of the people residing in the Balkans.

The chosen theme of this Congress is “Dental Medicine of the younger versus elderly patients”. This addresses the provision of oral health care to the young people to ensure that they live their lives with as smaller dental problems as possible but also ensures that the elderly people receive the dental care they require to be able to enjoy the rest of their lives.

This Congress has also another purpose except the pure scientific one and this is the opportunity it will provide once more, to bring together dentists from the Balkan and other European countries to spend a long weekend together socializing, meeting old friends, making new ones enhancing communications between professionals from the Balkan area and Europe.

With this message I would like to wish my dear friend and colleague Prof. Norina Forna and her team a great success with the organization and extend an invitation to all the colleagues to come to Iasi.

With Kind Regards,
Prof. Dr. Argirios Pissiotis
BaSS President

MESSAGES

President of BaSS Congress 2018

Prof. Univ. Dr. Norina Forna

Dean, Faculty of Dental Medicine,

Grigore T. Popa U.M.Ph., Iasi, Romania

President of the Romanian Society of Oral Rehabilitation

Dear Colleagues,

I warmly invite you to the 23rd Balkan Stomatological Society Congress, which will be held this year in Iasi, Romania, from 10 to 12 of May 2018.

This meeting marks an important moment in the evolution of the Romanian Association for Dental Education and of the Faculty of Dental Medicine, under the aegis of interdisciplinarity and avant-garde.

The selection of the governing theme for this international scientific event is not random: the dental medicine practice raises special issues in the treatment of either young or elderly patients, which often require special demands, opening a wide field of subjects for the dental research.

The BASS meeting will bring our city, Iasi, in the center of the scientific community devoted to the study of advances in dental medicine. Distinguished speakers from all around the world will offer the most recent updates in the clinical and paraclinical areas of interdisciplinarity, covering a broad range of topics, and the sessions of conferences and oral communications organized throughout the meeting will provide a valuable framework for all the specialists in the field of dental medicine to change knowledge and to establish new professional collaborations.

We are looking forward to welcome you in Iasi, the city of seven hills, “little Rome” of Romania, from the heart of the Moldavian region, a city rich in history and culture, and we hope that your staying here will be a very pleasant experience!

Located on the grounds of the former Garden of the Domnesti Court, in the oriental style, the present garden preserves elements from the arrangements made by Vasile Lupu, such as the circular lake and a closed pontoon with a gazebo on the place of the Middle Ages havuz.

15 - PERIODONTOLOGY

Background: It was aimed to investigate time and dose-dependent possible cytotoxic effects of different oral antiseptics on the primary gingival fibroblasts. Methods: In this study, gingival fibroblast cells were obtained by primary cell culture techniques from a patient who had indication for orthodontic tooth extraction. Three antiseptics which contain chlorhexidine digluconate, benzydamine hydrochloride and povidone iodine were prepared as 0,5%, 2,5%, 5%, 12,5%, 25%, 50% and 100% concentrations and these concentrated antiseptics were applied to the cells for 0, 30, 60 and 180 sec. At the end of the incubation, XTT cytotoxicity test was performed. The Graphad Prism program was used to assess the absorbances that obtained and software SPSS 22.0 was used for the statistical analysis. Results: In all antiseptics applied groups, when the antiseptic concentration and application time increased, cell death was increased comparing to the control group. For the 30 seconds applications of 0,5% concentrated antiseptics, there was no live cell number difference comparing to the control group ( $p > 0,05$ ). Also statistically significant live cell number decrease was observed after the all application times of %2,5, %12,5, %25, %50 and %100 concentrated antiseptics ( $p < 0,05$ ). However, when time and dose-dependent effects were evaluated for all three antiseptics, chlorhexidine digluconate containing solution was the most cytotoxic antiseptic on gingival fibroblast cells. Conclusions: Based on this study results, we concluded that antiseptics contents could cause different cell death rates. Application times, concentrations and contents could be important for the clinical usage of oral antiseptics.

Gingival recession is described as an apical migration of the marginal gingival tissue towards or beyond the cemento-enamel junction. One of the main causes of gingival recession is an irregular or abnormal tooth position, heredity, excessive tooth brushing, traumatic occlusion and weak periodontal support. The gingival recession can be minor (localized) or continued (generalized). Treatment modalities vary according to the type and severity of the recession. This paper reviews etiology, consequences, and the available surgical procedures for the coverage of exposed root surfaces, including three case reports. In this article, we will present the most well-known and easy-to-perform methods for gingival augmentation, with a special accent to the minimally invasive techniques, as well as a most predictable outcome. However, thus far, evidence is lacking for new modified techniques which can improve the patient experience undergo micro-surgical treatments, and will provide long-term aesthetic results at the same time.

Background: The aim of this study was to evaluate the changes that happened during the natural aging process concerning the periodontal bacterial charge in patients with chronic periodontitis to see if this could bring some changes in the periodontal therapy. Materials and Methods: The present study was conducted on 25 patients, 13 males and 12 females, with ages ranging from 22 to 56 years, all of them presenting a form of chronic periodontitis. The patients were divided into 3 groups regarding their ages: 20 to 30, 31 to 40 and 41 to 56 years. For all the patients, a clinical and radiographic examination was made in order to establish the periodontal diagnostic. After this, the bacterial profile of each patient was determined by means of a Real-Time Polymerase Chain Reaction (RTPCR) test. The testing was made on gingival fluid samples. Results: Although all 9 periodontal pathogens investigated were less prevalent in the 20-30 age group, with Aggregatibacter actinomycetemcomitans being absent, and most prevalent in the 41-56 age group, no statistically significant differences were found. Conclusions: Bacterial subgingival testing supports the fact that chronic periodontitis affects mostly more mature/elderly patients, but with not much of a difference concerning the periodontal therapy. Bacterial testing is useful for discovering the cases harboring Aggregatibacter actinomycetemcomitans, which is not a typical pathogen in chronic periodontitis.
